

Join our Mackay Birth Centre Community Reference Group

Mackay Hospital and Health Service, in collaboration with Health Infrastructure Queensland, are currently seeking interest from community members to participate in the co-design process and contribute towards the delivery of a New Mackay Birth Centre for the local community.

What's involved:

- Participate in a one hour meeting on a monthly basis throughout the design phase (meeting schedule throughout delivery phase will be determined and agreed by committee as required)
- Provide effective two-way communication on behalf of the nominated community/stakeholder group to ensure clear and transparent distribution of information
- Facilitation of regular engagement with nominated stakeholder group to ensure that the community is given the opportunity to directly contribute to the design of the new facility
- Support the delivery of the new Mackay Birth Centre to ensure that the facility meets the needs of the local community and for the benefit of generations to come.

Appointment to the Mackay Birth Centre Community Reference Group will be ongoing until operational commissioning of the new facility.

Video conferencing is available to support participation in meetings.

Face to Face sessions may be scheduled throughout the project as required – These will be held locally in Mackay for accessibility of members.

Who can join?

All members of the community are encouraged to apply and must be able to demonstrate that they meet at least one of the required membership criteria.

The intent of the Community Reference Group for the Mackay Birth Centre is to support all voices within the community, respect all view points and ensure cultural safety and sensitivity throughout the process.

Members will encourage a collaborative approach and seek to partner with us to contribute to the successful delivery of this important service for the Mackay community.

Further information about the membership criteria is available on our website.
